Sad and silent is the household,
Cold in death our darling flee,
She has left an e-rithly mansion
For a mansion in the skies.

Cold and silent is the young heart,
Pate the line we loved to kiss.
And upon her lovely features
Linger still the smiles we miss.
Darling, thou art gone to rest;
Thine is an early tomb;
But Jesus symmoned thee away,
Thy Saviour called thee home.

Farewell, little IDA LEVY, thou hast left us;
Angels claim thee as their ow;
Up in Heaven we hove to meet thee
When life's weary days have flown.
